SHOE FACTORY IN OPERATION

Machinery Put in Motion This Morning, Belts and Pulleys Will Need Adjusting

EVERYTHING UP-TO-DATE

One of the Finest Plants of Its Kind in Canada, With Latest Shoe Machinery

The Alberta Shoe Factory of Redcliff started its machinery in motion this morning and after a few minor adjustments will be in full operation.

This factory is one of the most modern of its kind in Canada to-day, being equipped with the latest machinery. Mr. Hogan, representing the shoe machinery company, who has been here for several days setting up and putting the machinery in place, took the Review representative through the plant and explained the use each machine was put to, but as his explanations would fill a book we will not attempt to tell our readers what each one is used for. Suffice it to say that all the work of manufacturing shoes is done by machinery, even to driving the nails in the heels.

About eighty different machines are used in the manufacture of a shoe and in addition to these there are twenty-five Singer sewing machines.

All the work in a shoe factory is done on the piece system and the men and women who work in these factories are paid according to the work [illegible] by them, each machine having an o[illegible] time being lost traveling from one machine to another.

The plant will be lighted by electricity and the machines propelled by gas engine power. The building will be heated by a hot air system, the cold fresh air being let into an enclosure that contains a steam coil, where it is heated and with a fan is forced through a large galvanized iron pipe to the different parts of the building, this pipe having openings every few feet, so that each part of the building will get its share of heat.

Another commendable feature about this plant is the fact that each machine has a pipe connected to it which carries off all the dust that the machine makes into a large pipe that runs the full length of the building, and behind all the machines, and carries the dust outdoors, thus making it more agreeable for those attending the machine.

The building is also well supplied with fire-fighting apparatus, being equipped with stand pipes, hose and chemicals.

There is also a glove manufacturing department connected with the factory, where all kinds of leather gloves and mittens will be turned out, work in this department having been begun several days ago.

Mr. Young, the manager of the plant, is to be congratulated in the way the plant has been assembled and equipped, which goes to show his thorough knowledge of the business.

Several people have arrived from the East to work in the plant and several more will arrive in the near future. Those who have already arrived are: Mr. and Mrs. A. Williams, of Chicago; Miss Stella Shepard, Rochester, N. Y.; Mrs. M. Coons, Rochester, N. Y.; Mr. and Mrs. J. Fitzsimmons, of Buffalo, N. Y.; W. G. Schrieber, of Lynchburg, Va.; R. G. Owens, Brantford, Ont.

The Presbyterian Church.

At the church at eleven in the forenoon the Minister will speak of "The Secret of Perpetual Youth," and at the Empress Theatre at half past seven in the evening his subject will be "How shall I Live?" A musical duet is expected in the first service and a solo in the evening. The Sabbath school is at 2 p. m. and the Union Bible class at 3.30. The prayer service on Wednesday evening at 8 will glance at the progress of Christianity during the past few months the world over. A study of great interest. The choir meets on Thursday evening. On Thursday evening a prayer service will be held in Mr. Rodman's residence on Fourth street northwest at 8 p. m. The reading room is open in the church every evening. All men are welcome.

ANNOUNCEMENT.

Miss Gaynelle Timmons wishes to announce that she is prepared to do all kinds of stenographic work and bookkeeping.

MASONS TO MEET AT MAPLE CREEK

There will be one of the largest gatherings of Free Masons at Maple Creek on Wednesday, March 18, that have ever assembled in Western Canada. Members of the craft from outside points are expected to be present in large numbers, and it is anticipated that the Grand Masters of Saskatchewan and Alberta will be present. A special train will be run from Medicine Hat, and Messrs. Elliott, McCandie, Williams and Botsford were in Redcliff Tuesday making arrangements for the local brethren to join with them. It is quite probable that Redcliff will be well represented.

Crawford.

Nearly all the real estate dealers in Redcliff report a large number of inquiries and it is believed that within a few weeks the market will be quite active and will show some of the vim of last year.

UNCLE AL.'S NOTES.

The wind has been in a hurry for the last few days.

If you are not on the inside, get on the right side, it is the next best.

The poorest of God's creatures is worth more than all the money in the world—and then some.

Have you seen, what is his name, that lives in who's house on the other side of the street?

The Western Canada railroads sure believe in keeping the money at home—they take all you have got when they bring you in, take all you make while here for shipping what you produce out and what you consume in. If you leave you must walk or write to a friend.

A farmer waters his stock and feeds it. The railroad waters its stock but the public does the feeding.

Man hath but a short time to live and is full of trouble. If you don't believe this try it.

No wonder the railroad man likes his job. He can eat everything in transit and sleep on the road bed.

The absence of church bells in Redcliff is very much in evidence on a Sunday morning.

When you ask for work they all say come back in two weeks. Our hens will be laying then and we won't need work.

Man has all the battles of life to contend with, and his wife, too.

After all, money is only a promise to pay—and in some cases it don't change.

Have you got any money, John? Yes, I have got a nickel and some small change, mostly all cash.

If you can't make money, make a noise like a hen. She can make money by laying around.

Rockefeller has finally decided not to take his money with him. It won't make any difference, J. D., your route and destination is all settled now.

HOUSES ARE IN GREAT DEMAND

At Least 25 Could Be Rented or Sold on Easy Payments

Houses in Redcliff are now in great demand. Two weks ago there were at least a dozen houses empty, but today every one is rented. This week several people were looking for houses but were unable to secure any. The demand is partly due to the fact that several families are coming in from the East to work in the shoe factory. There are still others to arrive and the demand will be still greater before any additional houses can be built. Indications are that building will be quite brisk in a few weeks, as the lumber companies are figuring with a number of people who are contemplating building.

VICTORY FOR REDCLIFF TEAM

BURNS C[illegible] DANCE WELL ATTENDED

The Most Popular Social Event of the Season Good Program

The annual dance of the Redcliff Burns Club was held last Friday night in the large store room on Fourth street, north of First avenue Northeast, when the members and their friends gathered together to trip the light fantastic to the strains of our local orchestra.

Hearts beat high and thoughts went back to the old country as the company marched into the gaily-decorated ball room to the skirt of the pipes where the welcome announcement that they were "a Jock Jamson Burns" met the eye.

A well-arranged program was submitted, including a number of Scotch dances, which were all gone into with enthusiasm. Mr. Cameron, the club's piper, gave a few exhibitions of Highland dancing during the evening, which were greatly appreciated.

Supper and refreshments were supplied during the evening and after a very enjoyable night the party broke up in the "we sma' hours," everybody seemingly well pleased with the night's entertainment.

REDCLIFF IS BEING WELL ADVERTISED

The Chicago Commerce, published by the Chicago Association of Commerce, published a very good article in its issue of March 6 on Redcliff and its resources. The article goes on to show the advantages of this city as a manufacturing point and the advantages to be gained by locating in this Western country.

The article is a very fair one, and if there are any American manufacturing concerns contemplating establishing branches in this section of the country they will be almost sure to investigate the advantages here.

A New Company Has Been Organized

The Provincial Gazette has just announced that the Quicklean Manufacturing Company, Limited, has been incorporated with head office at Redcliff, with a capital stock of $50,000. This is a company of local men who intend developing a fine deposit of scouring material that was found on the river bottom just below the Brick and Coal Company.

BUSINESS METHODS NEEDED FOR FARMERS.

That the successful farmer of the future will closely follow the examples of successful men in the commercial world and introduce better business methods into his work, is the opinion of Charles K. Graham, director of agriculture at the Hampton Institute, Virginia, who spoke at one of the sessions of the Wisconsin Farmers' Course when in session at Madison recently.

Proper rotation of crops, careful appointment of horse and human labor in such a manner that none is ever idle, the planning of work months ahead, and the introduction of the line of farming best suited to a given locality, he believes are all necessary if the largest profits are to be made.

FIRST INFLUX OF BRITISH IMMIGRANTS FOR WEST

The first spring influx of British immigrants bound for the Canadian prairie provinces, arrived at Windsor station a few days ago over the Canadian Pacific railroad from Halifax, where they had disembarked from the company,s liner, the Empress of Britain. They numbered about 1,000 persons. Their arrival made a busy stir in the immigration offices at the station, and the company was compelled to add three extra cars, including a sleeper, to the regular train make-up.

This first lot of British immigrants were of an unusually bright and well-dressed class, many of them taking the sleeper for the west. They will take up mixed farming, including cattle and sheep raising, as soon as they are all located on their farm lands.

Mr. S. Cary, of the firm of Carey & Reid, contractors, returned to Redcliff the first of the week, after having spent the winter in Ontario.

FISHER'S ADDRESS BEFORE MENS LEAGUE

Mr. Fisher's address of last Sunday afternoon on the "Power of Imagination," was one that was helpful to all. In it he showed how the imagination may have a powerful influence over one's bodily condition and may also greatly influence the mind. He then went on to show how imagination has been an important factor in the lives of all great men, stirring in them new ambitions and desires and urging the men through discouragement and failure. But he showed how its truest function was to turn ones eyes from the material world to the realm of things spiritual, from things temporal to things eternal, from the shifting sands of earthly existence to the great abiding realities that have been revealed to us through that Man of Galilee whom we call Master and Savior. At the close of the address Mr. David Smith gave a vocal solo which was well received and appreciated by all the men.

Next Sunday afternoon at 3 o'clock Mr. A. J. Irving, Secretary of the Y. M. C. A. at Lethbridge, will speak to the men. If you are afraid of being offended you will perhaps be safer at home, for Mr. Irving has a way of aiming straight and hitting hard. But if you want to hear a talk that will be of real help to you as a man do not fail to hear him. A "Glad Hand" is ever ready to greet you. Remember the time—3 p. m., Sunday, March 15.

"Mohawk Crossroads Business Meeting"

The Presbyterian Church Ladies Aid Gave Splendid Entertainment

Wise men doubted whether local lady talent could draw a full house on two successive evenings, yet the church was overcrowded on Monday evening and the Empress Theatre was full to the doors on Tuesday evening. And the talent was not yet all exhausted. On the second evening the attraction was the Mohawk Crossroads Ladies' Aid Business Meeting, and the audience was over-delighted with the presentation. The numbers by the orchestra and the piano solo by Mrs. Bagg were well received. Misses Cecilia MacKay and Jean King sang very effectively at the opening, and Misses Marion Sherwin and Vera Black at the close. The twenty-three ladies who took part in the play sustained their characters with force and imagination. Their costumes and manners of sixty years ago, appealed to the minds of the [illegible]. The acting was good throughout, and when next the Ladies' Aid stages a play we want to be there to hear and see.

Several people who were unable to get into the theatre would like to see the play given again, and it is believed that it would draw a full house, as everyone who attended the affair have been making very favorable comments on the way it was presented.

Land Medicine Hat Contract.

The local contracting firm of Olson & Stanley have commenced work on an eight-rom bungalow for C. S. Lowry at Medicine Hat. The house, when completed, will cost about $5,500.

A Winner.

Mrs. D. Carlton, of First street, is the winner of the handsome cut glass fruit dish in the guessing contest at the Home Furnishing Co. Mrs. Carlton says that her luck has changed since coming to Redcliff. Mrs. Carlton is now conceded the best authority i nRedcliff on just how long an eight-day-clock should run.

Left for Minneapolis.

Mr. Howard Freeman left Tuesday morning for Minneapolis, where he was called on the account of the illness of his father. He was unable to say how long he would be gone, but will return just as soon as his father regains his health.

Here from Indian Head.

Messrs. B. F. Holden, Geo. Ovens, Henry Ward and O. Holden, all of Indian Head, were in town this week in the interest of River View Park. Mr. Holden expects to be able to announce something of importance to the people of Redcliff shortly which will be of great benefit to the town.

BUSY SESSION OF THE COUNCIL

Consulting Engineer to be Employed to Lay Out a Complete Sewer System

AUDITOR'S REPORT READ

A By-Law Authorizing the Borrowing of $25,000 on Current Revenue Was Passed

The Town Council met last Wednesday night in the town hall with Mayor Bott and Councillors Lavelle, Lydiatt, Flath and Ireland present.

The minutes of the previous meeting were read and after a correction was made they were adopted.

The committee that was appointed at the last meeting to adjust the matter of school taxes on some of the subdivisions reported that they found that the School Board had no authority to change the assessment after sending out notices, and that the matter had been settled on the basis of the first assessment.

Chairman Flath of the Water Committee made the following report:

1. We recommend that water meters of a suitable size for each of the following plants be purchased and installed as soon as possible: The Brick and Coal Company, Pressed Brick Company, Redcliff Rolling Mills Company, Clay Products Company, Ornamental Iron Company, Motor Truck Company, Dominion Glass Works, Redcliff Woodworkers, Alberta Shoe Company, also for the Laurel and Redcliff Hotels.

2. That a frontage tax of ten cents a foot be levied on all property now facing on water lines.

3. That we allow 25 per cent. discount off the present tariff of water rates and that if legislation can be framed to make the property responsible in case water rates are not paid and also if the property is on a water line, but not connected, to collect water rates from these property holders, we will then consider a further reduction.

4. That we make no charge for lawns or gardens.

5. That if the present quiet times continue and until such times as work is more plentiful that we do not put into effect the three-months in advance payment resolution.

The Board of Works Committee reported that they had been in correspondence with a Mr. Francis, of Montreal, with a view of getting him to come to Redcliff and lay out a sewer system. He had agreed to come for a sum not to exceed $4,000, based on a rate of $100 per day. A motion was made and carried that he be employed.

Mr. Francis was employed by the Dominion Government at the time of the Quebec bridge disaster. He was also employed by Moose Jaw to enstall the present water system of that city, and enjoys an excellent reputation as an engineer.

The Secretary-Treasurer read a bylaw which authorizes the Mayor and Secretary-Treasurer to borrow $25,000 from one of the banks, to be paid back out of the current revenue. This was given its second and third reading and passed.

The auditor's report was then read and on motion it was ordered to be printed in the Review and that a copy be forwarded to the Minister at Edmonton.

A motion was carried that W. A. Henderson & Co., of Medicine Hat, be employed as official auditors, they agreeing to make a monthly report if so required, for $600 for the year.

Councilor Ireland moved that the town engineer be authorized to purchase three hydrants that are badly needed at this time. Motion carried.

It was also decided to make arrangements with the Ornamental Iron Company for all the castings needed by the town, including hydrants, they agreeing to furnish them for the same price that any outsider could furnish them f. o. b. Redcliff.

A petition was presented asking that Park View be taken into the town. The Mayor and Secretary-Treasurer were authorized to take the matter up with the Provincial Government.

A petition from several residents in Shipley Park that the water be extended to them was read and referred to the water committee.

A letter was read from Dr. H. A. Bonnar asking that the water be extended to the proposed knitting factory. This matter was also referred to the water committee and the town engineer.

A letter from M. J. McHenry was read asking that he be re-embursed for some oil and paint he claims that the scavenger carried away from his residence some time last summer. The matter was referred to the sanitary committee.

A communication was received from the secretary of the School Board asking that they be given $2,000 to meet a debenture payment. The request was granted.

Mr. Courtnell, in a letter to the Council, asked that he be relieved from the duties of pound master. After a little discussion a motion was made and carried that the request be filed.

Councilor Lydiatt brought up the matter of signing checks and believed the Council had made a mistake in passing a by-law authorizing the Town Clerk and Secretary-Treasurer to issue checks without the Mayor's signature. He therefore made a motion that the town solicitor be instructed to draw up a by-law repealing the one in question, which motion carried unanimously.

Informal discussion took place on several matters, but no action was taken on the matters discussed.

Two or three of the local mechants were in attendance at the council meeting expecting that a petition would be presented asking that a by-law be passed that all stores be closed at 6.30 p. m. This matter did not come up.

After being in session three hours the council adjourned at 11.20 p. m.

THE BIBLE CLASS LADIES' SOCIAL

The ladies of the Union Bible class entertained the class and its friends in the Presbyterian Church on Monday evening. Mrs. James King presided and surprised her friends in her opening remarks. Mrs. James Ardinger played very sweet music on the autoharp. After a hymn by the chorus and a prayer in which Mrs. G. L. Gordon led, the program followed on in untinterrupted interest for over two hours. There were recitations by Mrs. Watts, Mrs. Livingstone, Mrs. Ardinger and Misses Ethel King, Frickleton and Ruttan, intermingled with songs by Misses Leona Ardinger, Jean King and Mrs. D. C. Smith. Mirth-provoking dialogues were rendered by Mrs. Smith and Misses M. Hitchen, Eva May, Mabel Johnson, Jennie Webb and by Misses Fairbairn, Dickie and E. King. Very amusing was the "Silent Song" by the bashful quartet. The vocal portion was closed by the chorus singing "Keep Smiling." Then followed tea, coffee, sandwiches and various makes of cake. The evening was enjoyed by every one present and voted the best and most pleasant so far, which is indeed saying a great deal.

TOO MUCH TIME TO REFORM THINGS

By a Distinguished English Publicist.

We are told to take Time by the forelock; but I am myself more in a mood to take him by the nose, for I believe that in many respects he is an aged humbug. I dislike him especially since he has changed his name to Progress, and, like an antiquated dandy pretends that he is growing younger every day. But I dislike him most of all as the spirit and exemplifier of gradual and cautious progress; of the modern reforms which are supposed to be safe, merely because they are slow. So long as you mix a lot of time with your experiment, like mixing a lot of water with your whiskey, it is constantly assumed that the result may be good for you.

I doubt it very heartily. I am with those who believe that eternity can heal, but I do not think that time always does so. There are some curious things, such as wine and wounds, that do, on the whole, improve with the passage of time; but even with them you generally have to do something definite to start with, with a cork or a bandage, unless you want to progress into vinegar and blood-poisoning. But in a large number of human affairs time has played the traitor rather than the reformer, and has rather given men leisure to forget their promises than leisure to fulfil them. A castle looks more ancient when coverd with ivy; but ivy is a parasite.

Moral ideals, political intentions, that have been sustained and suspended too long, find in time a hundred excuses for their own sterility and delay; and if a thing can be too new it can also be too old to be within the sphere of practical politics. What is called in law the statute of Limitations may be roughly necessary; but it is an act of indemnity for thieves, and may also be called theft on a large scale. With the changing circumstancts and values of earthly life, a thousand opportunities crop up for evasion on the one side or disappointment on the other. If a gentleman is kept waiting for his dinner past a certain time, he will probably be irritated and not consoled when informed that the time has come for a simple and healthy breakfast. Or if two persons, clinging to an extinct superstition, are so misguided as to want to get married they will be dissatisfied if the time comes when it is suggested, as more seasonable and appropriate, they should be buried instead. The two services in the Episcopal prayerbook are doubtless both very touching and beautiful; but this merely aesthetic circumstance will not exhaust all the reasons for preferring one to the other.

Now, nobody can understand the tragic and comic cross-purposes of our society to-day who does not understand that there are two totally different notions of reform which have got entangelled together. The first is the idea of fighting or waiting for what we want; the other is the idea of waiting until we want something different. From the mixture of these has come a monstrous confusion about whether you or I are progressive or reactionary, which clouds every question we discuss. If being progressive means wanting to extend to most men the things that most men desire, then I am progressive. If it means extending to them anything that a few men choose to think they have discovered, I am not.

This fissure may yet split all European Liberalism from end to end, for it is the unfortunate fact that some of the most prominent and sincere of those who wish to help the common people will not help them to the common things. For the sake of clearness I will take a line of English poetry and note its exact terms. Mr. Belloc once wrote [illegible] sonnet on the poor of London [illegible] summed up very well the sort [illegible]eralism that appeals to him and to me, as distinct from the sort that appeals to so many of the social reformers. In this the lines occurred:

"The poor of Jesus Christ along the street
In your rain sodden, in your snows unshod,
They have not hearth nor sword nor daily meat,
Nor even the bread of men. Almighty God."

Now, it is curious to note that the poet takes three things which are specially hampered or withheld in the case of our proletariat. They have no asurance of domesticity or household goods. They have no sword; that is, they have less habit or chance of self-defense than any mediaeval mob, and are more impotent against scientific arms than any populace was before. They are trained to hold tools, not weapons. They have no meat; that is, they have not that fuller and warmer sort of feeding or feasting, which the writer of the sonnet himself distinguishes as something more festive than common bread.

These are the three things which the poet and I would complain of the capitalists for withholding. And the extraordinary thing is that all three of them are things that half the advanced socialists would withhold, too. Mr. Bernard Shaw and his followers would jeer at the hearth and domesticity; they would denounce the sword as "militarism," and they would lament the meat as something lower, at least, than the perfect practice of vegetarianism. Their honest efforts to alleviate and altar men's toils are tripped up perpetually with a cross-purpose to alter their tastes as well.

Now, this, as I have said, is a very instant peril for all liberal causes, Radical and Socialist. If the comparatively recent republican institutions of Europe become really dehumanized, humanity may yet return to older institutions and try to rehumanize them. We may live to see real reaction; dangerous and excessive exaggeration of the ruder systems of the past. The only thing that could still bring the kings and barons back again would be this modern failure of the commonwealth to act for the common man.

Two motorists, having almost ruined their tempers—and their tires—in a vain attempt to find a hotel with a vacant bed, were at last forced to make the best of a small inn.

Even then they had to share the bed which was—and on this the landlord laid great stress—a feather bed.

They turned in, and one of the pals was soon fast asleep, the other was not. He could not manage to dodge the lumps, and heard hour after hour strike on the church clock, until 3 a.m., when he also struck.

He did this by violently shaking his snoring friend.

What's the matter? growled the other. It can't be time to get up yet.

No, it isn't, retorted his friend, continuing to shake him, but it's my turn to sleep on the feathers.

Two Powerful Arguments

The mayor of an Australian mining town had been away on leave, and as he had outstayed it a vote of censure was passed upon him. At the next meeting of the council he, in his capacity of mayor, directed the minutes of the previous meeting to be read, which contained the following entry: A vote of censure was passed on the mayor for outstaying his leave, and it was resolved to ask for an explanation.

Who proposed this vote of censure? asked the mayor.

I did, said a councillor, standing up.

You did, did you? continued his interrogator, stepping from his presidential chair to the unfortunate member. Then take that!

With these words the mayor smote his enemy in the right eye, and felled him to the ground.

Who seconded this resolution? he again repeated.

Still no reply.

Then, said the mayor, as there is no seconder it is informal. Scratch it off the minutes.

CARELESS AND CO-OPERATION

Chief Cause and Best Remedy for Forest Fires

Mr. R. H. Campbell, Director of the Dominion Forestry Branch, says: "Carelessness was undoubtedly the chief cause of forest fires in 1913." The best remedy is indicated by a recent statement of Mr. E. T. Allen, Forester for the Western Forestry and Conservation Association, who says: "The best single result of the 1913 fire season is to prove that systematized co-operative effort at an insignificant cost per acre or per thousand, can reduce our forest losses of an average year four or five million dollars to about as many thousands." If on the twenty million acres of timberlands controlled by the lumbermen forming this association, the fire loss can be so enormously reduced by co-operation, the saving which Canadian citizens could effect by co-operative effort on the 500,000,000 acres of forest land in Canada, is almost incalculable.

The functions of the Government in this respect are well understood, and a great deal has been done, especially by the field officers of the Dominion Forestry Branch, to promote the co-operative spirit in the matter of fire protection. But only recently has the initiative been taken by private associations in co-operative fire protection, yet there are now thirty timber-owners associations in the United States, the members of which have got together to adequately protect from fire their combined holdings, which now total about 25,000,000 acres.

In Canada there is but one association of this kind but it compares favorably with any in the United States. The development of this co-operative movement, which culminated in Canada in the St. Maurice Fire Protective Association, is described in detail by a bulletin now being issued by the Forestry Branch, Ottawa. The Quebec limit-holders comprising this association have by a self-imposed tax of one quarter cent per acre installed a fire protective system on their 7,000,000 acres of holdings second to none in Canada. 1913 over 275 forest fires were extinguished with practically no danger, proving, in the words of one of the members, that "The success of co-operative forest fire protection has been established without a doubt."

Eight Hours Only

The new school teacher in a rural town gave a boy a question in compound proportion for home work one day. The sum described an instance of men working ten hours a day to complete a certain task.

The next morning the teacher, in looking over the little pack of exercises, found this boy's sum wholly unattempted. Calling him to her she asked why he had not tried to do the sum.

The boy, after considerable fumbling around in his pockets, brought forth a note from his father and handed it to her. Unfolding it the teacher read:

"Miss,—I refuse to let my boy do this sum you give him, as it looks to me to be a slur at eight-hour system. Any sum not more than eight hours he is welcome to do but not more.

Why, my dear sir, confided the doctor, I have had it myself for over twenty years.

"Nerviline" Cures Cramps End Misery Instantly

NO REMEDY SO SPEEDY OR EFFICIENT

Any real cramp cure?

Yes, a real one—in a twinkling the cramp is a dead one, and the last squirm is over, once you get a stiff dose of Nerviline on the inside.

This isn't mere talk—it's a solid, truthful fact. No other remedy—not a single one—will cure cramps so quickly and harmlessly as Nerviline. It hits the spot in a jiffy and saves a heap of misery.

"Last Saturday night my stomach felt like an infernal machine," writes T. P. Granger from Hartford. "I was awakened from a sound sleep and found myself suffering the worst kind of torture. I was so doubled up I could hardly cross my room. I had used Nerviline before for the same thing and took a real good dose. Once I felt the warm, soothing sensation of Nerviline in my stomach I knew I was all right. It finished the cramps—just one single dose."

Sickness at night is rendered a nightmare of the past if Nerviline is handy. It may be earache, toothache or cramps. Nerviline in every case will cure at once and save calling the doctor. Nerviline is a family physician in itself. The large 50c. family size bottle of course is most economical. Small trial size costs a quarter. All dealers sell Nerviline.

Hard-Working James

Now, James, said the joiner to his apprentice. I am going out. I don't expect I shall be long, and you can be planing up that ten-by-eight beam till I come back.

But, alas! misfortune overtook the joiner. He slipped at the bottom of the street, sprained his ankle, and had to be taken home.

The next day, towards evening he hobbled into his workshop and was confronted by an enormous pile of shavings. James was invisible.

Jim! he called.

Halloa! came a far-off echo.

Where are you?

Down here under the shavings!

W-why—what are you up to?

Planing that beam up. You told me to keep at it till you came back; but if you'd kept away any longer there'd have been none left.

It was, perhaps, just as well for Jim that his master's accident had disabled his foot.

Grand Opera Birds

Live birds have figured largely in recent stage productions, and the following conversation may take place at any moment.

Irrigation Farmers Coming in Special Solid Trainloads

Solid trainloads of irrigation farmers from the irrigated areas of Colorado to the C.P.R. Irrigation Block in Alberta are the direct outcome of the policy adopted by the Canadian Pacific Railway of encouraging to its irrigated lands settlers with practical experience in farming under similar conditions. Colorado is one of the leading irrigation states, and artificial use of water is a vital feature of agriculture. A party of representative farmers from that state were shown over the irrigated district in Alberta, last fall, and were so impressed with the possibilities of the Canadian district that they at once closed contracts for all the land within the ready made farm colony in the Bassano district. These farmers with their wives, families and effects will leave Colorado by special train about the first of March en route for their new homes in Alberta.

The importance of this movement to the development of Western Canada can hardly be over estimated. The fact that the foremost irrigation farmers of the United States, after a personal examination of the irrigated area in Alberta, are selling their holdings in Colorado and moving in train-loads to Canada tells its own story. It is the best assurance of the great possibilities which await the Canadian irrigation district, as it shows that in the opinion of practical and successful irrigation farmers, the opportunities awaiting them in Canada are greater than are to be found elsewhere.

The trainload of settlers already referred to is only the beginning of a movement which this season promises to eclipse all past records. Other trainloads will be made up from time to time, and so important is this traffic expected to become that a special side track has been set aside at Minnesota Transfer for the handling of these trains. The 20 year's terms offered by the C.P.R., combined with the fertility and natural advantages of Canadian soil, are proving an attraction too great to be resisted by practical American farmers.

IN MISERY AT MEAL TIME

Indigestion Can Be Cured by the Use of Dr. Williams' Pink Pills

If your digestion is weak you cannot derive proper nourishment from your food. The pain and distress you suffer is a protest from your stomach that it is unable to do its work. It is then that you lose all appetite, have dull headaches, acute pains in the chest and abdomen; heartburn and other distressing symptoms.

You cannot cure indigestion by the use of laxatives and predigested foods only make the stomach more sluggish. Indigestion can only be cured by giving tone to and strengthening the nerves that control the stomach. Dr. Williams' Pink Pills have cured indigestion times without number, because they purify and enrich the blood. In this way they improve the appetite, dispel the torments of indigestion and enable you to derive benefit from the food you take. The following is proof of these statements. Mrs. George Brien, Great Shemogue, N.B., says: "A few years ago I was taken down with a fever which left me suffering from nervous stomach trouble. I apparently got over it, but the trouble could not have been wholly eradicated, as during the summer of 1912 I was taken down with it again. I took many medicines, and was attended by two different doctors, but instead of getting well seemed to be growing worse. I could not eat without suffering the most intense pains: even a drink of milk seemed to upset me. I slept poorly and at last dreaded to see night come. In this condition I saw in a newspaper the story of a woman who had similarly suffered and was cured through the use of Dr. Williams' Pink Pills. I decided to try the Pills and found by the time I had taken three boxes that they were helping me. I continued using the Pills until I had taken eight boxes, when the trouble had disappeared, and I have to thank Dr. Williams' Pink Pills for restoring my health after I had practically given up hope of ever being well again."

Dr. Williams' Pink Pills are sold by all medicine dealers or will be sent by mail at 50 cents a box or six boxes for $2.50 by writing The Dr. Williams' Medicine Co., Brockville, Ont.

He Was an Actor

A certain actor, who walked across the stage in a street scene of a third-rate drama, was very fond of telling his friends what he would accomplish when he had a speaking part. No matter how small it was, he would show them what real acting meant.

Eventually his opportunity came. He was booked for a coming production. He was to appear in one of the scenes and say two words "It is."

"True, the part was small, but it was a beginning.

For three weeks, nightly, before his mirror he rehearsed; trying all sorts of gestures, expressions, and tones, until he felt perfect.

The eventful night arrived when the curtain was to rise on the new play for the first time, and our budding "Irving" impatiently awaited his cue. It came. And so this is the end?

With his best tragedian air he stalked to the centre of the stage and in a voice of thunder cried: Is it?

Husband (at police station)—They say you have caught the fellow who robbed our house night before last.

Sergeant—Yes. Do you want to see him?

Husband—Sure! I'd like to talk to him. I want to know how he got in without waking my wife. I have been trying to do that for the last twenty years.

An Anomaly

Willy—Pa, what's an anomaly?

Colonel—An anomaly, sah, is a bed of mint in prohibition territory.

A WONDERFUL DISCOVERY

An eminent scientist, the other day, gave his opinion that the most wonderful discovery of recent years was the discovery of Zam-Buk. Just think! As soon as a single thin layer of Zam-Buk is applied to a wound or a sore, such injury is insured against blood poison! Not one species of microbe has been found that Zam-Buk does not kill!

Then again. As soon as Zam-Buk is applied to a sore, or a cut, or to skin disease, it stops the smarting. That is why children are such friends of Zam-Buk. They care nothing for the science of the thing. All they know is that Zam-Buk stops their pain. Mothers should never forget this.

Again! As soon as Zam-Buk is applied to a wound or to a diseased part, the cells beneath the skin's surface are so stimulated that new healthy tissue is quickly formed. This forming of fresh healthy tissue from below is Zam-Buk's secret of healing. The tissue thus formed is worked up to the surface and literally casts off the diseased tissue above it. This is why Zam-Buk cures are permanent.

Only the other day Mr. Marsh, of 101 Delorimier Ave., Montreal, called upon the Zam-Buk Co. and told them that for over twenty-five years he had been a martyr to eczema. His hands were at one time so covered with sores that he had to sleep in gloves. Four years ago Zam-Buk was introduced to him, and in a few months it cured him. To-day—over three years after his cure of a disease he had for twenty-five years—he is still cured, and has had no trace of any return of the eczema!

All druggists sell Zam-Buk at 50c. box, or we will send free trial box if you send this advertisement and a 1c. stamp (to pay return postage). Address Zam-Buk Co., Toronto.

He Should Fret

You can't fool all the people all the time, announced the investigator.

I know it, replied the trust magnate. There is plenty of profit in fooling half of them half the time.

A club of eccentric young men had for one of their rules that on Tuesday evenings any man who asked a question in the club rooms which he was unable to answer himself should be fined $10.

One evening McLoughlin asked the following:

Why doesn't a ground squirrel leave any dirt around the top of his hole when he digs it?

After some deliberation McLoughlin was called upon to answer his own question. That's easy, said he. The squirrel starts from the bottom and digs up.

All very nice, suggested a member, but how does he get to the bottom?

Well, answered McLoughlin, that's your question.

The publisher of the best Farmer's paper in the Maritime Provinces in writing to us states:

"I would say that I do not know of a medicine that has stood the test of time like MINARD'S LINIMENT. It has been an unfailing remedy in our household ever since I can remember, and has outlived dozens of would-be competitors and imitators."

Carriage Lady

A woman, dressed in faded finery was put in the dock on a charge of being drunk and disorderly.

After the magistrate had been told that she refused to walk to the police station and had to be taken there on the ambulance the prisoner explained: I was drunk. Why should I walk? I am a carriage lady.

The Magistrate—Well, pay the carriage hire; five dollars.

Looked Like It

Well, sonny, said the teacher, I hope you'll have a very good time this Thanksgiving.

I'm going to have, the boy replied.

Are you sure of it? she smiled.

Yep; maws laid in a stock of castor oil and soothing syrup.

Mistress (who has just drunk a glass of water in the hall)—That water had a queer taste, Jane.

There ain't a live germ in it, mum, I ran it through the meat chopper before I brought it to you.

Breaking It Gently

The Boss—I have looked up your record and was told that your word was as good as your bond.

The Applicant—I am pleased to hear it.

The Boss—And, further, that the only bond you ever signed was your bail bond and you jumped that.

FRIDAY, MARCH 13, 1914.

STARTING OUT WELL

The action of the Council last Wednesday night in employing Mr. Francis of Montreal to lay out a sewer system for this town is a move in the right direction, Mr. Francis enjoys a nation-wide reputation as an engineer, and has been employed by the Dominion Government and several large cities to direct big undertakings, and we believe that the $4,000 the Council has agreed to pay him as the maximum sum for his services will prove to be an economical expenditure. Four thousand dollars is a small sum to pay for plans and specifications for an undertaking that will cost in the neighborhood of a quarter of a million dollars.

Where a large sum of the people's money is to be expended for a public improvement it is always advisable to get the best advice available, so that the people will get something for the money expended. This we believe, the Council is endeavoring to do and should be commended for the action they have taken.

FIRE FIGHTING.

The fire in the City Market building a week ago last night, while it did not do any great damage, demonstrated one fact, and that is that the hydrants should be tested frequently, especially in the winter time.

The fire department should also be provided with chemicals, as many a fire could be put out with them thus saving the necessity of turning on the water and the consequent damage done therefrom.

The public should not be allowed to crowd in on the firemen and prevent them from performing their duties. The way some of the people acted at the fire was a disgrace. The firemen were doing the best they could under the circumstances and the public should support their efforts rather than hurl cat-calls at them. Any body of men will work better if they know that their labors are appreciated, and if Redcliff ever expects to have a good volunteer fire department the people have got to support the men who compose the brigade. If, after a reasonable time, it is found that there are men in the department who are not fit to act as firemen they should be dropped and other men substituted, but the present members have not had a chance to show what they can do, and until that time arrives the public should give them encouragement.

Petroleum and Gas Regulations.

By Order in Council, January 14th, 1914, the following new provisions have been inserted in the Dominion petroleum and natural gas regulations:

1. No application for a lease shall be accepted or recorded unless it is accompanied by the full amount of the rental for the first year, viz: 25 cents per acre.

2. Provision is made for the expenditure on a group of leases where more than one have been acquired by assignment or otherwise, provided that such consolidation shall only apply to the second and third years of the term of the lease, and shall comprise only such leases as may, at that time, be included in such consolidation. The group shall not exceed an area of 20 square miles, nor shall the locations be separated from each other by more than two miles.

3. Provisions are made with regard to preventing access of water to the oil-bearing formation and that all reasonable precautions be taken to guard against the waste of natural gas.

4. Any company acquiring leases shall at all times be and remain a British company, registered in Great Britain or Canada; the Chairman and a majority of the directors shall, at all times, be British subjects and the Company shall not at any time, become, directly or indirectly, controlled by foreigners or by a foreign corporation.

5. The Minister may at any time, if considered necessary by the Government of Canada, assume absolute possesion and control of any location, together with plant, equipment, etc.

6. If oil in paying quantities is discovered, the lessee shall work the wells uninterruptedly in accordance with the provision of these regulations and to the satisfaction of the Minister so long as the wells yield oil in paying quantities.

REBUKING IMPERTINENT MAN.

Every once in a while man gets the idea into his head that he has conquered the forces of nature and on such occasions nature frequently arises to assert her age-old superiority. The most striking proof of this statement was afforded by the Titantic disaster. At that time man set out to boast that he had fashioned a craft which could not be conquered by natural forces. It was contended that she could not be sunk by either storm or collision and the answer was her destruction by collision with an iceburg and the loss of over sixteen hunndred lives. Another case in point has just been afforded. In India, a medico-scientist, Dr. Frederick Fox by name, was assured that he had discovered an antidote for snake poison of the most enomous type. So confident was he that he caused himself to be bitten by a reptile of the deadly class. The experiment ended in his destruction. It is certain that man is permitted to peer only so far behind the veil of mystry.—Ex.

A WONDERFUL ENGINEERING FEAT

New York's Aqueduct the Longest Tunnel in the World

Longest tunnel in the world—110 miles.

Cost nearly $200,000,000.

Two hundred and eighty-three men have lost their lives.

Eight thousand eight hundred and eighty-three have been ienjured.

Gave employment to 25,000 men for nine years.

To supply New York City with 250,000,000 gallons of water daily.

Presented more engineering difficulties than the Panama Canal.

New York's Catskill aqueduct tunnel, said to be a greater engineering feat than the Panama Canal, is a reality. All that remains to be done is the finishing within of the wonderful bore which is to give New York its water supply. A party of New York newspaper men walked through the big underground passageway.

In a city which always is doing big things this latest work stands out among the biggest. A quivering of the ground, a rattling of windows and a dull boom from 439 feet underground told of the breaking of the last barrier in the longest tunnel in the world, 110 miles in length. Neither men nor money have been spared in the gigantic task. In carrying on the whole work a force of men ranging from 25,000 to 17,000 has been employed for nine years at average wages of $2.50 a day. Two hundred and eighty three men have lost their lives and 8,883 have suffered injuries ranging from the loss of a leg or an arm to a mashed finger.

The expenditure up to the first of this year were $129,203,603. Except for an enforced addition of the legislature of $30,000,000 by the establishment of an eight-hour day, a police system and a generous system of compensation for property destroyed, the whole work could have been completed within the original estimate of $162,000,000 made nine years ago.

The engineers promise that within two years 250,000,000 gallons of Catskill water will be flowing into New York city every day. In due time thereafter, 250,000,000 gallons more, drawn from other than the Esopus basin, will fill the aqueduct to capacity. The new system is designed to meet the needs of the city for many years to come.

Two years more are required to complete the work of lining the rocky sides of the tunnel with concrete and completing gates, regulating reservoirs and aeration basins. There are two little lakes—one at Ashokan, below the dam, and another at Kensico at the end of the proposed Bronx parkway, in each of which 1,800 fountains will play all day and night, freshening the water with the oxygen of the air and furnishing a treat such as many an American has crossed the Atlantic to see at Versailles.

Three hundred and forty-five thousand seedling trees are being planted on the city-owned land about the reservoirs. A landscape gardener with a big force will set them out along stately drives which will aid in keeping the surroundings of the city water supply clean, the commissioners hope, because of the dignified landscape.

Eight villages, in which 800 families or 3,000 persons, were housed, were moved away or razed and burned. Twenty-eight hundred bodies were removed from the village cemeteries and buried away from the watershed at the expense of the city.

In the work of construction camps, schools and clubs were established, churches were fostered and Italian feasts and negro carnivals encouraged. Contractors were forced to build little towns of their own with model bunk houses, independent waterworks and low-priced commissary departments.

Engineers do not hesitate to compare the big job favorably with the digging of the Panama Canal. The canal was an enormous undertaking but it is said that except for the slides in the Culebra cut it was simple engineering. The difficulties met and solved by the little army of engineers under Chief Engineer J. Waldo Smith, between Esopus and Brooklyn, have been almost numberless and of varying perplexity.

The course of the aqueduct runs through a geological formation which Old Nick himself could not have tangled worse if he had been trying to make the engineers think sinful thoughts. Few knew that once, ages ago, the spot where Albany is situated was [illegible] feet higher than it is now; also that it was at another time 600 feet lower than it is now. The ocean rushed in through the river courses, and the peaks of the Catskills were an archipelago like the Thousand Islands. On the top of Peak Mountain, near the head of the big pipe line, are to be found sea sand and shells. With all this pulling and hauling at the skin of the earth six different kinds of rock were jumbled and kneaded and welded together so that it was impossible except by innumerable test borings for the engineers and contractors to know what was coming next.

Seventeen and a half miles of that longest tunnel in the world, the two ends of which were joined recently between Brooklyn and Yonkers, have been blasted through solid rock. Twenty-four shafts have been dropped down to the working level. Every one of these shafts has used a thousand pounds of dynamite a day for more than a year. Twenty-four thousand pounds of dynamite a day have been exploded down under New York's feet, and nobody except workmen down in the tunnel has been injured. This has been accomplished by building crooked blind side tunnels from each blasting chamber and by closing the opening to the shaft leading to daylight with a wedge shaped door.

Had the whole supply of dynamite in any one chamber gone off at once the shock would have been absorbed in these twisted side drills and the wedge shaped door would have been driven like a cork into the opening to the upper air and the dusy streets. There has not been an explosion, but had there been one folks up above at least would have been safe.

Aqueduct Commissioner Charles N. Chadwick had a strike preventive ready. Police? Not a bit—schools. He figured that the workmen—Italians, Slavs, negroes and others—would have eight hours' work, eight hours' sleep and eight hours' play. This, to the commissioner, indicated mischief. He devised an adult school at which English was taught and the principles of Government of the United States in a simple way. The men were taught that the padrone had no power over them here. They were encouraged to debate. The hours in which mischief might have brewed were thus used in education, which was in itself an antidote to mischief. The workers lost their suspicion of the bosses. Their festivals were encouraged, and chapels for interdenominational worship were opened to them.

The result has been the building up of an esprit de corps which has kept every man from the chief engineer to the lowest laborer at the job. Time and again the light in New York offices have been kept purning all night as a group of engineers, young and old, have wrestled with an unexpected problem so that work might not be halted on the morrow.

Prediction of a "Boom."

Business men throughout the United States seem to be more pleased with the new currency law the more they study it. It corrects defects which have stood for fifty years, causing panics from time to time. New York papers which at first opposed the bill are now printing columns of opinions from manufacturers and others predicting a business "boom."

Parcels Post Increased to Eleven Pounds

The 11 pound limit of weight for the parcels post went into effect last week. Thus the restriction to six pounds for each packet accepted for transmission by parcels post during the months of February, March and April has been removed. The order that has gone forth from the post office department also eliminates the additional fee of five cents to be prepaid by postage stamps on each parcel mailed for local delivery in places where the letter carrier system is in operation. However, the insurance of packets does not become operative until the first of May, as at first set forth, and in the meantime packets of the parcels post may merely be registered.

Although the increase in the use of the parcels post has been continuous and steady since the inauguration on Feb. 10 last, the rush on the mails was not by any means as great as might have been expected. Since the full weight is being accepted, it is expected by the post office officials that the new department in the mail service will loom large, and that many manufacturers and shippers as well as the public in general will take advantage of the cheap rates afforded by the parcels post, in preference to those of the express companies.

Bostonians in Good Standing

Yes, I had a brother in Boston once, said a Chicago lady to a Bostonian. He was in some great musical society there, but I forget its name.

Handel and Haydn society, perhaps, suggested her visitor.

Well, I guess so, Handel and Haydn were Boston men, weren't they?

At a certain Scottish mansion, notorious for scant fare, a gentleman was inquiring of the gardener about a dog which some time before he had given the laird. The gardener showed him a lank greyhound, upon which the gentleman said:

No, no! The dog I gave your master was a mastiff, not a greyhound.

The gardener quietly answered: Indeed, any dog might soon become a greyhound by stopping here.

TORONTO WUMAN WELL AGAIN

Freed From Bearing Down Pains, Backache and Pain in Side by Lydia E. Pinkham's Compound.

Toronto, Ont.—"Last October, I wrote to you for advice as I was completely run down, had bearing down sensation in the lower part of bowels, backache, and pain in the side. I also suffered terribly from gas. I took Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound and am now entirely free from pain in back and bowels and am stronger in every way. I recommend Lydia E. Pinkham's Compound highly to all expectant mothers."—Mrs. E. WANDBY, 92 Logan Avenue, Toronto, Ontario.

Consider Well This Advice.

No woman suffering from any form of female troubles should lose hope until she has given Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound a fair trial.

This famous remedy, the medicinal ingredients of which are derived from native roots and herbs, has for nearly forty years proved to be a most valuable tonic and invigorator of the female organism. Women residing in almost every city and town in the United States bear willing testimony to the wonderful virtue of Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound.

If you have the slightest doubt that Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound will help you, write to Lydia E. Pinkham Medicine Co. (confidential) Lynn, Mass., for advice. Your letter will be opened, read and answered by a woman, and held in strict confidence.

A Canny Farmer

A Waterford farmer ordered a two-pound loaf from the village baker to be delivered daily at the farm; while the baker, in return, agreed to purchase two pounds of the farmer's butter week by week. A short time ago a dispute occurred between the two parties over the weight of the butter, and after a long and wordy warfare the matter was taken to the law court.

Well, said the magistrate to the farmer, after conflicting evidence had been given, of course you are prepared to bring your weights and scales into court?

No, sir, I am not, was the prompt reply. The fact is, I don't use any for the baker.

Not use any repeated the magistrate in astonished tones. Then how do you weigh his two pounds of butter, may I ask.

With one of them two-pound loaves he agreed to send me, was the prompt and convincing answer.

Minard's Liniment Cures Garget in Cows

A certain reverend gentleman occupied a stateroom on one of the great liners with a fellow passenger. After a while he began to feel just the slightest bit uneasy as to some valuables he had with him. So he took them to the purser and said: "I should just like to explain to you that I am very pleased with my fellow-passenger. That is, I find him a gentleman in every respect and I wouldn't have you think that my coming to you with these valuables is to be taken as any reflection on him. With a broad smile the purser interrupted him: Oh, that's all right, sir, your friend has come to me with some valuables of his own; and he said precisely the same thing about yourself.

The crocodiles number 11 species; the alligators, only two. The American alligator, inhabiting the southeastern United States, is 12 to 16 feet long, has a broad, blunt snout, and is stouter, less active and less vicious than the crocodiles. The other species, the Chinese, lives in the Yangtse-Kiang river, growing to a length of only six feet.

Gearing for reducing the speed of steam turbines to that required for the propeller shaft of a steamship was first used four years ago. It has been made durable, and quite free from wear and noise, and has now been applied to vessels of 435,460 horsepower. The loss due to transmission and reduction is claimed to be less than two per cent.

A Stowaway

A captain of one of the ocean liners was showing a young lady friend of his over the ship, when they came upon a big emigrant wolfing large quantities of food.

Just look at the enormous amount of food that fellow is consuming! I suppose, captain, said the girl with a beaming smile, he is what you sailors call a stoway?

The Shopper

Behold, the thrifty shopper comes,
For summer days are o'er,
All day she views silks, socks and hose,
And spends two bits—no more!

Sybil—So mad! Bill cut me on the street last night.

Drybil—Never mind. He was probably edged.

Taking Him Down

To a certain Southern town, on legal business came a most pompous young lawyer, who notwithstanding his name was McNaught, had an excellent opinion of himself. He found it necessary to talk with Squire Gardner, an unpolished justice, who had no good opinion of anything, and especially of anyone who had a good opinion of himself. The squire had never heard of his visitor till he called and he was a poor hand at remembering names, but he was an expert in human measurement.

The young lawyer proceeded promptly to say what he had to say, the squire listening, but watching. Presently he thought it was time for him to say something.

Hold on, Mr. McCipher, he began.

My name is McNaught, the lawyer stiffly corrected him.

Excuse me, excuse me, apologised the squire, and finished his remarks.

It was not long before the squire again felt called upon to speak.

Well, now, Mr. McZero——, he started in.

I said my name was McNaught, the lawyer interrupted sharply.

Fun in Engine Room

As a rule engineers are anything but a frivolous class of men; but occasionally one comes across a joker. Recently a solemn-looking individual strolled into the engine-room and asked Mr. Guppy, the light-hearted second, to give him a little information about his engines.

Why certainly, said Guppy. Those two brass knobs over there are called the jeremididlers, and that thing like a distorted mangle is the freezer. Now the jeremididler—so called because of its resemblance to a boiled owl—is really generating electricity flavored with red currants—you understand? Well, when we stir up the conflicting elements with a brass poker and an old clay pipe, the jeremididler is connected with the freezer and owing to the ammonia extracted from the pipe mixing with the electricity, it freezes the freezer so cold that we have to use a six foot thermometer to find the temperature—

My word, said his questioner, that's wonderful. And he walked away.

Hear me kidding the old chap? said Mr. Guppy with a wink to the chief, who had been standing by. He's as green as a new cheese.

Yes, I have often thought so, said the chief quietly, but he's the inspecting engineer for the company all the same.

The African crocodile, held sacred by the ancient Egyptians, is thought to have destroyed more human beings than any other kind of wild animals in Africa. The American crocodile, of Florida, Mexico and Central America is not dangerous.

Then you no longer insist upon the enforcement of the laws punishing reckless automobile drivers?

Oh, no. We get at it in a different way now. We are opening schools that will teach children how to dodge 'em.

The Friend of All Sufferers.—Like to "the shadow of a rock in a weary land" is Dr. Thomas' Eclectric Oil to all those who suffer pain. It holds out hope to everyone and realizes it by stilling suffering everywhere. It is a liniment that has the blessings of half a continent. It is on sale everywhere and can be found wherever enquired for.

Mr. X—, a lawyer, was much addicted to the habit of lecturing his clerks and the office boy coming in for an unusual share of admonition whenever occasion called for it, and sometimes when it did not. That his words were appreciated was made quite evident to Mr. X— one day when a conversation between his and another office boy on the same floor was repeated to him.

Whatcher wages? asked the other boy.

I get $10,000 a year, said Mr. X—'s lad.

I don't think! ejaculated the other boy, derisively.

Honest, I do, said Tommy; $5 a week in cash and the rest in legal advice!

The Mother Tongue

Does Miss De Gabb resemble her mother?

Not so much at first sight; but when she begins to talk, there's a speaking likeness.

A Business Man

What does your father do for a living? asked one little girl.

Why, replied the other, he takes up the collections in church.

First barber—What was the best job you ever did?

Second barber—I once shaved a man, then I persuaded him to have hair-cut, shampoo, facial massage, singe, seafoam, electric buzz, tar-spray and tonic rub.

First barber—What then? By that time he needed another shave.

Crushleigh—Oh, I say, Miss Passay, can you interpret a dream for me?

Miss Passay—How very interesting! I'll try.

Crushleigh—Thanks, awfully! It's that one over there in pink. She speaks nothing but French.

Are They?

She—Are they happy together?
He—Well, he stays in every evening.
She—Then they must be.
He—But she goes out.

PRESIDENT SUSPENDER
NONE SO EASY

True Heroism

Everyone in the hotel smoking room with one exception, had been holding forth on his own personal bravery and presence of mind. Everybody, with the same exception had recounted at least one hair-raising episode in which he figured as the embodiment of cool courage.

At last the silent exception was asked if he had never had cause to exert his presence of mind.

Only once, he replied yawning. I had dropped into a circus to pass away a couple of hours. It was a bright little show, and the performing elephants were particularly wonderful.

Suddenly there was a shriek from the women. The biggest elephant had escaped from his keeper, and was making for the most crowded part of the tent—where I happened to be sitting by the way. There was a stampede of frightened people. The shrieks of women and children filled the air; strong men fainted and pandemonium reigned supreme.

The silent one's listeners gasped.

But I am proud to say, continued that gentleman, that I kept my head and, in consequence, escaped unhurt.

What on earth did you do? somebody asked.

I? Oh, I just kept on running behind the elephant.

FIRE IN THE HUMAN BODY

The body is like a furnace, and the food is burned or oxodized just as coal is burned in a stove. When too large an amount of food is taken or the digestive system is deranged, the food ferments and forms poisonous gases and waste substances which cause pains and aches, rheumatism and serious disease.

Billous attacks, headaches, liver disorders and kidney diseases have their beginnings in overeating or the use of foods which disagree. To prevent serious disease it is absolutely essential that the liver, kidneys and bowels be kept regular and active by use of such treatment as Dr. Chase's Kidney-Liver Pills.

On account of artificial foods and modern methods of life, almost everybody finds it necessary to use medicine in order to keep these organs in active working condition. Dr. Chase's Kidney-Liver Pills are most satisfactory, because you can depend on them to produce the desired effects.

Speaking of the kiddies at a recent social affair, Miss Julia Arthur, the actress, told of the sad moment that fell upon the happy young life of little Willie.

One afternoon a woman was passing along the street when she chanced to see little Willie cuddled up in the corner of the verandah softly crying. Instantly her soft heart was touched and she paused to soothe the sobbing one.

"What is the matter, my little man?" she gently asked. "Has somebody been teasing you?"

No, ma'am, answered the tearful boy. I have just been punished for making dents in the marble step.

Why, that wasn't so serious, unless the dents are very large, responded the sympathetic woman. Did you make them with a hammer?

No, ma'am, was the startling reply of Willie, I did it with papa's watch.

Postponed Tragedy

You have appendicitis, said the doctor man to Jim;
And I must operate at once or else your chance is slim.
You shan't touch knife to me, was James' firm reply;
I'll have no operation, and I ain't agoin to die.
Unless I cut, the doctor said, you'll surely pass away;
You will be dead, believe me, sir, by two o'clock today.
So Jim was scared and yielded, the carving was a shock,
But he was very thankful that he lived at two o'clock.
For doctor's know their business, and it's very plain to see
That this one saved Jim's life because he didn't die till three.

The Lady—You have seen better days, no doubt.

The Tramp—Yes'm I have. And I have seen worse. And I've seen some just as good. But I've never yet seen a lady who so cleverly indicated the higher knowledge of the cooking art. If ever there was a face with good pie written there it's your face, ma'am.

He got the pie.

Unless worms be expelled from the system, no child can be healthy. Mother Graves' Worm Exterminator is the best medicine extant to destroy worms.

Never had the engine run better. The huge car raced along the road, raising the dust in clouds and flitting past milestones with an easy regularity almost monotonous.

Ah, gasped the driver as the car battled with the wind, which swept the high ground, where for miles around the surrounding country could be seen, this is the place for view, eh, my boy. Have you ever come across such a landscape as that before?

Almost lost in the roaring of the wind came his friend's hoarse grumble:

Never! I've already had a good deal more than I can swallow.

A Through Passenger

She—Did you ever see "The Castle Walk?"

He—Oh, dear, no. I've been on the wagon all through college.

Mrs. Waggles — Were you rude to that life insurance man?

Mr. Waggles—Why, no! I just told him I wished he would go down cellar and talk into our furnace.

The average man's arm is thirty inches long; the average woman's waist is thirty inches around. How wonderful are thy works, Oh Nature!

Moving cars and railroad yards are great attractions for boys. But think how many have been crippled in this dangerous sport.

The prisoner was charged with frequenting a thoroughfare with intent to commit a felony.

The detective who shadowed and arrested him told the magistrate that he had never known the man to work.

The prisoner objected to this and said he could prove to the contrary.

Magistrate—What are you then?

Prisoner—I am a "picker" sir.

Magistrate—A picker—what is a picker?

Prisoner—Well, you see, I pick strawberries in the summer, hops in autumn, pockets in winter, and I am generally picking oakum in the spring.

My Mother's Eyes

A newspaper recently invited its readers to state in a few words what they considered the most beautiful thing in the world.

The first prize was awarded to the sender of the answer: "The eyes of my mother."

"The dream of that which we know to be impossible," suggested an imaginative person, and this brought him second prize.

But the most amusing thing was that which read:

"The most beautiful thing in the world is to see a man carrying his mother-in-law across a dangerous river without making any attempt to drop her in.

Whisper

First bud—Oh, Mabel, I heard a good story—

Second bud—Sh! Whisper! My brother is in the next room.

His Speech

The late Mr. George Hodgman, who was known as "the Father of the Turf" wrote a book some years ago in which he told of being mistaken for Mr. Gladstone, to whom he bore some resemblance. One evening at the Waverley Station in Edinburg some of Mr. Hodgman's friends passed round the word that Mr. Gladstone was traveling by the train.

At first, says Mr. Hodgman, the crowd was incredulous, but soon the people flocked round my carriage, and misled by the dim light, thought I was Gladstone. The station was quickly in a ferment, and 'Speech! Speech!" startled the porters in their work. Speak, said Mr. Gale, as the train was on the move. Show yourself. So I thrust my head out of the window with "Thank you, gentlemen! So-and-so will win the Cesarewitch!"

Once upon a time there was a boy and he applied for a job.

We don't want lazy boys here. Are you fond of work? asked the boss.

No, sir, answered the boy, looking the boss straight in the face.

Oh, you are not, aren't you? Well, we want a boy that is.

There ain't any, insisted the boy doggedly.

Oh, yes, there are. We have had a dozen of that kind here this morning, looking for a situation with us.

How do you know they are not lazy? persisted the boy.

Why, they told me so.

So could I have told you so; but I am not a liar.

He got the job.

His Time

He'd eat his lunch in a minute.
He had no time to spare,
At a mounted fish in a window
He'd stop an hour to stare.

Early Prowess

Pa, stated little Dodd Rott, the small son of the distinguished statesman, I heard a man say that you used to be so crooked that you had to sleep wound around a stump. Is that so, pa.

When I was younger, Doddie, replied the Hon. Thomas Rott, with becoming modesty, I was the best athlete in the neighborhood.

Luck

George Ade, at a dinner, said of luck:

Nobody is so dependent on luck as the playwright. When he prospers he considers luck a kindly goddess; but when his work fails, then luck seems to him a spirit perversely cruel and mean.

He regards luck then as Tom Jackson's wife, of Lafayette, does.

Tom said one morning at breakfast:

Hang it all! While I was weeding I dropped my Imperial Order of Boosters' pin on the lawn, and I have been looking for it now over half an hour. It's gone for good I suppose.

That night when Jackson sat down to dinner there was his pin beside his plate.

Bully for you, said he. Where did you find it, Martha?

I let Tommy go barefooted this afternoon, said Mrs. Jackson quietly.

A man cannot always be known by his looks, for he may be cross-eyed.

DON'T HAWK, SPIT, SNEEZE, CURE YOURSELF! BREATHE "CATARRHOZONE"!

Gives Instant Reliefs, Clears Out Nose, Throat and all Breathing Organs

In this fickle climate, repeated colds very easily drift into Catarrh.

The natural tendency of Catarrh is to extend through the system in every direction.

Exposure to cold or dampness intensifies the trouble and nasal catarrh is the result.

Unless a complete cure is effected, inflammation passes rapidly to the throat, bronchial tubes and then to the lungs.

You can't make new lungs—hence Consumption is practically incurable.

But Catarrh can be cured, except in its final and always fatal stage.

Catarrh sufferers, meaning those with colds, sore throat, bronchial trouble, etc., can all be cured right at home by inhaling "Catarrhozone."

In using Catarrhozone you don't take medicine into the stomach—you just breathe a healing piney vapor direct to the lungs and air passages.

The purest balsams and the greatest antiseptics are thus sent to every spot where catarrhal trouble exists, germs are killed, foul secretions are destroyed nature is given a chance and cure comes quickly.

Colds and throat troubles can't last if the pure healing vapor of Catarrhozone is breathed—sneezing and coughing cease at once, because irritation is removed.

Use Catarrhozone to prevent—use it to cure your winter ills. It's pleasant safe and guaranteed in every case. Complete outfit $1.00. Smaller size 50c. at all dealers.

WINNIPEG GIRL IN A MOCK MARRIAGE

An almost incredible story comes from Notre Dame, a French settlement 50 miles south east of Swift Current. A family by name of Desautels took a young girl, Rosana La Roque, about 15 years old, from the convent at Winnipeg and adopted her. It is alleged they did not treat the girl very well and forced her to work very hard. A peg-legged cobbler, of about 45 years, named Le Clair, drifted to the neighborhood and became acquainted with the family, and finally the cobbler was persuaded to marry her. The guardians of the girl are said to have persuaded her to marry this man. The priest of the neighborhood refused to perform the ceremony.

A dance was held at the Desautels' some time later, and among the number was Albert Bonville, a justice of the peace. During the evening, it is alleged, liquor flowed freely and when everyone was in a beautiful condition, the question of the marriage came up. The justice of the peace, Bonville, who, it is alleged, has no commission to marry, was asked if he could perform the ceremony the same as is done across the line. It is claimed, although Bonville denies it, that some sort of a ceremony was performed. A regular orgie of drunkenness is then said to have ensued which ended in a free fight. A brother of the girl went to Mr. Marcotte, a lawyer in the vicinity and as a result warrents were issued and Le Clair and Bonville were arrested and taken to Swift Current by mounted police from Neville. It is understood that the girl has no marriage license and that Bonville denies that any ceremony was performed or pretended to be performed.

The case has caused great excitement in Notre Dame district. It is claimed that the brother of the girl refused to allow the marriage to be legalized by the priest after the alleged ceremony.

THE GENTLE CYNIC.

We all have some good in us, but sometimes it takes a lot of coaxing to bring it out.

Tact is sometimes merely the art of seeming to be interested in other peoples troubles.

It's all right to look ahead, but don't be too previous.

The fellow who has a free foot has no business to be a kicker.

The office that seeks the man generally stacks up against a pretty good dodger.

Many a man's popularity begins and ends with himself.

Heaven won't seem like home to some people unless there is something to complain about.

The only people who can afford to be perfectly frank are those who don't care whether they have any friends or not.

To prove that some people really have brains you have to hit them over the head with a club.

Between happiness and misery the average man makes his own percentage.

A NOTARY PUBLIC

Announcement has just been made that James R. Cutt of Redcliff, has been appointed a Notary Public. Mr. Cutt is a member of the firm of McEwen & Cutt, real estate dealers.

ORIGIN OF THE MONROE DOCTRINE

Taking for his subject "British Interests in the Argentine," Herbery Gibson told the story recently, at the Colonial Institute, in London, of the origin of the "Monroe Doctrine."

"It was quite wrong to imagine," he said, "as many Englishmen did, that it was a stronghanded but rather obsolete law, and that it bade all Europeans to keep hands off the fertile lands of South America.

"It really began in the Argentine. The campaign of a hundred years ago when the South American Spaniards knocked spots off the British soldiers who tried to capture Buenos Ayres is almost forgotten. Like all good fighting races Great Britain and Argentine shook hands when the fighting was over.

"It is quite well known," continued the speaker, "that the British were the first of European races to recognize the independence of the Argentine Republic. What preceded that is not so well known. In 1823, some of the leading European Powers wanted to intervene in their own interest in the little wars that were then going on between the Spanish-American communities and Spain herself.

"George Canning at that very time had addressed a letter to Mr. Rush, the United States Minister in England, suggesting that South Americans had thoroughly won their title to independence, and that it would be a splendid benefit both to the South American republic and to civilization in general if Great Britain and the United States agreed to support them in resisting European aggression or territorial occupation.

"President Monroe saw the value of what Canning had suggested and incorporated it in his next Presidential message.

THE STREET RAILWAY CRAZE

The city of Brandon is facing the facts in regard to its street railway system. Including interest, this enterprise was responsible for a loss of about $100 daily. Drastic steps have therefore been taken by the city council to economize and to endeavor to bring the system somewhere near a paying basis. The superintendent's resignation has been accepted, half the motormen and conductors have been dismissed, and a general "one man to a car" system adopted. Unfortunately, Brandon is an early sufferer of the recent western craze for street railways,—a craze, by the way, which may yet spread to Ontario, to Ontario's regret. Not long ago, when optimism got out of check, there seemed to be a conviction that if a city could doast of a street railway, positive proof existed of its high standing and dense population. This obviously was incorrect, but street railways have been built largely on the strength of such sentiment.

A street railway's success depends much upon earnings and upon economy of operation. To have sufficient earnings, one must have density of population or freight, or both, and sufficient area. It is very questionable whether Brandon can support a street railway, even under the new system of economy. The fact is not a reflection upon the city of Brandon, which is the centre of one of the best farming communities in western Canada, but urban communities such as Brandon should seriously consider the prospects of success of such an undertaking before embarking into it. If Brandon's experience will teach a lesson to other ambitious cities, the price will not have been excessive if the lesson will be observed.—The Monatary Times.

Stilling the Waves With Oil.

"Pouring oil on troubled waters" is an expression that comes down to us from Bible times. Until 25 years ago it was regarded as a mere figure of speech. Then it was discovered that oil poured upon a tempestuous sea will really still the waves in a manner that seems almost miraculous.

Among the steamers that hastened to the aid of the doomed Volturno was the tank ship Narransett, loaded with lubricating oil. A few barrels of this, poured upon the water quickly smoothed out the sea and enabled the boats of the rescuing steamers to approach the burning craft to take off the passengers. And none too soon; a little more delay would have caused the loss of hundreds of lives

This lubricating oil was of high fire test. It could not take fire on the water, and therefore added nothing to the danger of the thrilling situation. The incident suggests that a few barrels of the right kind of oil would be a good thing to have on board any ship.

He Misunderstood.

A Scotsman in search of work was recently given employment as a laborer at a shipyard. His first job was to carry several heavy planks After he had been at it for several hours, he went to the foreman and said:

"Did a tell ye ma name when a started to work?"

"Yes," replied the foreman, "you said it was Tamson."

"Oh, then it's a' richt," said the Scot as he looked toward the pile of planks he had yet to carry. "A was jis. a wounnerin' if ye thocht a said it was Samson."
